Double Patenting

1. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

2. Claims 23-25, 29-31, 53, 58, 59-61 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-56 of U.S. Patent No. 6,658,091. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because for example claim 23 of the present application is an obvious variation of claim 46 of U.S. Patent No. 6,658,091.

3. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claim 60 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Nadooshan (US PAT: 6,161,182) in view of Nabavi (GB 2325548).

Regarding claim 60, Nadooshan discloses a method for remote accessing of premises, the method comprising: operatively coupling a remote client (for example 400, fig. 1) to a security system server (reads on 300, fig. 1), the security system server being capable of authenticating a user of the remote client, upon authentication of the user of the remote client, the security system server transmitting, to the remote client, authorization information necessary for the remote client to access a security gateway (for example 145, fig. 1) for the premises, the remote client transmitting, to the security gateway, the authorization information transmitted to the remote client by the security system server, operatively coupling the remote client to the security gateway, the security gateway capable of managing the one or more portions of the premises, and transferring information between the security gateway and the remote client, wherein the user is at a location which is geographically remote from the premises, wherein remote client cannot access the security gateway without the authorization information provided, to the remote client, by the security system server (figs. 1, 2, col. 3, line 66 – col. 5, line 30).

Nadooshan differs from the claimed invention in that he does not teach using the system for remote monitoring of a premises.

However, Nabavi security alarm systems which teaches the following: using the system for remote monitoring of a premises (fig. 1, abstract).

Thus, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at time invention was made to modify Nadooshan's system to provide for the following: using the system for remote monitoring of a premises as this arrangement would facilitate the user to gain access to the remote premises for controlling and monitoring of the equipment as taught by Nabavi (page 7 lines 16-22), thus facilitating user needs.

6. Claim 61 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Melur Ramakrishnaiah whose telephone number is (571)272-8098. The examiner can normally be reached on 9 Hr schedule.
